This device was seen by a prospector.

He was burned by the rim exhaust holes that spin the ship.

You can see upper exhaust holes that generate a lift vortex above the ship.

The atmosphere enters at the bottom through the magnetic pole and cause the upper resonate membrane to expand and compress atmosphere out of the exhaust ports.

The magnetic membrane is constantly cooled from above. This makes the membrane magnetically un-stable.

Kim, magnetism is "NOT" a source of energy. The magnetic field is driven by changes in the upper membrane temperature.

This machine is a classic pyro-magnetic spacecraft. It grew a bright red and soared into the sky.

It had a definite rotation and was round if viewed from the top.

Once more it "DOES NOT" use fuel. It uses the difference in temperature between its upper and lower surface. It can use either the atmosphere or the hydrogen of interstellar space as a working gas for propulsion
